Fremont Makers opens in Cañon City, bringing factory-direct cabinetry, custom woodwork, and framing to Southern Colorado

CAÑON CITY, Colo. — Fremont Makers, a new Cañon City shop, is open for homeowners, builders, and remodelers across Southern Colorado. The company designs cabinet projects, sources quality collections factory-direct, and assembles them in the shop at 719 Main Street.

The idea is simple. Cabinet work should not mean months of guesswork. Fremont Makers helps people pick a collection, plan the wall, see the room before they order, and pick up cabinets that are already assembled — kitchens, baths, laundry, offices, mudrooms, and built-ins.

“We believe cabinet projects should strengthen your home and your confidence in it — not create months of stress over decisions that feel impossible to make well,” the company says.

Work is done in Fremont County, for Fremont County and the rest of Southern Colorado. Design help is complimentary. Layouts and 3D renderings come with the process. Cabinets leave the shop assembled and checked. Pickup is at the shop. Delivery and install, when needed, are through independent contractors.

The shop also offers custom framing and custom woodwork alongside cabinet packages — frames, built-ins, and one-off pieces that sit next to the cabinet work rather than instead of it.

Fremont Makers is part of the Unbridled family of companies. The work is made by people earning a real second chance. That is part of how the shop runs. It is not a pitch.

The public promise is the same one on the site: Designed with you. Assembled for you. Ready for your space.

Homeowners, contractors, and property managers can start a design conversation with no pressure to have every measurement figured out.
